Is Getting Tired of The Populists
Trying to Run Everything in Meade.

The Fact That Some Men Have Become Crazy on the Question

Does Not Shake His Faith In the Grand Principles of Democracy.

ALBERT JOHNSON'S SPEECH.

All Populist papers are teeming with "fraud that smells to Heaven," persecuting the two old political parties, especially the Democratic party, heaping coals of fire on not only the heads of the President, congressmen and Senators but their constituency as well, declaring in thunder tones that the only way susceptible of reaching the seat of the disease that has been manifesting itself in a catalogue of ills, is by handing over the reins of the government to the Populists who are getting awful hungry for "pie," crying like babies because they can't get a smell.

This country is besieged with Populist papers. We Democrats—some of us at least—get them gratis. We read them, of course; read everything we can get hold of from Tom Paine's Age of Reason down to Darwin's Theory. They do not tend to mar our intellectual powers. The belief is firm within us that there is a God, a "hereafter." The fact that some men have become crazy in their search after knowledge, doesn't shake our faith in a Divinity, and the fact that some of our representatives have gone wrong, is no indication that all Democrats are thieves. The versatility of our minds is not moved by the incoherent howlings of a gang of coyotes and Jackals—calamity-howlers, "dead beats," or Populists(?) if you please.

I was invited to attend the club meeting at Oak Grove the night of the 5th inst, and hear a grand display of eloquence in the Populist line, from Mr. Johnson, of Brandenburg. When there is any thing of a grandiloquent nature going on in the country, Sirocco's mighty apt to take it in so I took in Johnson's eloquence. The only thing I regret, in regard to listening to his harangue is, I had to put a mustard plaster on my side to draw the soreness out which was caused from the smothered convulsions of laughter that wouldn't down at my bidding. He soared aloft on the wings of oratory, his mellow, sweet-scented voice rising and falling 'twixt earth and heaven like the winds harp-strings, 'till one imagined he could see him oscillating in ethereal space with the angels of heaven beckoning him up. He read his speech, or essay, or whatever it was, from a manuscript in tablet form, never for a solid moment keeping his eyes off of his paper only for a glance around the room now and then to see if every body was awake.

We were all very much awake, but are yet undecided whether he intended that address for a parody on the psalms of David, a burlesque on Solomon, or was trying to paraphrase Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, but suffice it to say, "we got our sufficiency full and more would have been superfluous," as the girl said when she shoved her plate back at the table and refused to partake of anything more, her mother having cautioned her to eat sparingly when in company, and when she was pressed to continue her meal, excuse herself thusly; "Thank you, I have a sufficiency and more would be superfluous." But you see the old gal got things kinder mixed. Johnson never made an application from start to finish, it was a continued prologue of psalms. In closing, he said that he had become very religious since he had embraced the Populist doctrine, and didn't see how the Democrats and Republicans could refrain from becoming members of the Populist church, that Jesus Christ was the best Populist that ever lived. When he brought Christ into the ring, it was after he had finished reading his manuscript and had fallen to pieces like an old barrel that had been under the influence of too much sunshine. Elisha Ashcraft capped the climax then by rising to his feet and telling the audience that he (Ashcraft) was sorry that Mr. Johnson didn't speak plain enough for them all to understand him.

Elisha then opened the doors of the church and invited sinners to come forward and join the Populists while the congregation sang an old familiar hymn. Didn't any body go up. I guess they wanted to search the scriptures and see if Johnson told the truth about Christ being a Populist. I honestly believe that some of the Populists in Meade county think that the second coming of Christ, is close at hand, and when He makes His appearance, He'll say, first thing, to the Populists, "Well done thou good and faithful servant, &c. etc." and will say to the rest, "All you Populists rise first." Then He'll say, "Where is Jim Arnold?" Jim will speak up right quick, "Here I am Lord, I've bullwhipped the Democrats and Republicans until I know you'll give me a high seat in the mansion of Heaven." Then He'll ask "Where is Elisha Ashcraft, Jim Haynes, Davis Young, Ed Love, Ben Current and Dock Gray?" They'll all answer with one voice, "Here we are Lord, we've been the best Populists in Meade County, don't know but what we're little better than you, Lord." Sirocco. Continued next week.

ROSELAND.

Look out, jack frost is coming.

Mr. Frank Rhodes Sr., is on the sick list.

Mr. John Rhodes went to Hardinsburg last Monday.

Miss Mittie Fraize is visiting at Owensboro and Henderson.

Miss Kate Glasscock is teaching a very interesting school here.

Farmers in this section are about through cutting tobacco.

Farmers are busy cutting up corn and getting ready to sow wheat.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Rhodes went to Glendene last week shopping.

Several from this neighborhood are going to take in the big show next Monday.

Mrs. Belle Basham, who has been crazy for a good while, died the third of this month.

Miss Maggie Rhodes, of Irvington, is visiting relatives on Long Lick, Mount Carmel and Yellow Lake.

Lafe Cannon and Jimmie Mattingly attended the Sunday school at the Jarboe and Rhodes school house.

Mrs. Mattie Rhodes and little sons, Ernest and Roy, are visiting her parents and relatives near Owensboro.

Mr. Bob Rhodes has been covering Mr. Cliff Mattingly's new barn and enjoying those excellent grape pies.

As the gay season is fast approaching, we are getting anxious for that long-looked-for party. What do you say, Sudio?

We are sorry to hear of the death Mrs. Cynthia Brown. She had reached her 77th year. I guess she is missed very much.

Miss Mary Mattingly and brother, Jimmie, of Mount Carmel, visited Miss Becky Wilson at Mr. John Compton's last Sunday.

Mr. Charles Jarboe, one of our enterprising merchants, McDaniels, went to Louisville last week and purchased his fall stock of goods.

We were very sorry to learn of the death of little Bonnie Parsons, the lovely little daughter of Mr. Sam Parsons, who died the 25th ult.

We hear Mrs. Matilda Mattingly, better known as old grand-mother Mattingly for she has reached her 90th year, is expected to die at any time.

Miss Maggie Rhodes, of Yellow Lake, and Mr. W. A. Frank, of McDaniels, visited Miss Mattie Mattingly, of Planter's Hall, last Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. R. H. McMullin has been kept busy this summer and fall during the rage of typhoid fever. He had twenty-five cases and treated them all successfully.

The golden October days have come with their mellow sunshine and pleasant air. How the gentle breeze makes the autumn leaves tremble and sigh as it flirts by them in its joyful glee for soon it will command them to their summer home and carry them to some forlorn spot to wither and perish.

Wheat and Corn Thieves.

A few days since thieves broke in and stole six bushels of wheat and about the same of corn from Mr. T. D. Ireland, near Skillman. He followed it to Cloverport where it was sold to the mill, and got the exact weight of each, together with the name of the thieves. He says that sympathy prevents him from prosecuting them. They are both young men living in the neighborhood, and the leader of the two is a confirmed thief. He should have been in the penitentiary many years ago. This class of cattle, which is a pestiferous scab on society, usually live in some little log cabin out in the woods, and such a thing as making a living in an honest way never enters their head. They generally hunt and sleep all day and at night fall pillage the product of honest neighbors. A year or so since this same leader entered a neighbor's meat house to steal. His retreat was hurried and he fastened his dog in the house. The next morning the farmer found the dog and shot it.

SHE DON'T WANT TO TELL
—what made her beautiful.
Yet it's only what other women know. Wealth of beauty comes only with a healthy body. Health is a set of good habits. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription assists nature in establishing these habits. Women have yellow faces, dull eyes and hollow cheeks, together with low spirits, when they are made miserable with disorders, derangements and weaknesses peculiar to their sex. Health is regained, after periods of disease, nervous prostration and excitability, or other manifestations of derangement or displacement of the womanly organs, when the "Prescription" is used. Besides, it's sold on its merits. The proprietors take the risk.
It is guaranteed to benefit or cure all the disorders, diseases, and weaknesses of women, or money is refunded.
Catarrh is cured by Dr. Sage's Remedy.

GLENDENE

Miss Hook, Hardinsburg, visited Mrs. J. R. Mattingly last week.

Mr. Hodges and family, of May's Grove, Hardin county, are visiting Mr. Bob Weller.

Miss Lottie Moorman and father, Mr. James Moorman, spent Saturday and Sunday in Cloverport.

Miss Lillie Scott, Hardinsburg, after visiting Miss Carrie Owen, returned home to-day, Monday.

Allen Dean, Owensboro, spent Sunday at the home of his father, W. J. Dean. Mr. Dean is employed in a number of cases in the Hardinsburg court this term.

Bro. Rutledge preached to the children at his Goshen appointment Sunday. In the evening he came over and gave one of his good sermons to an attentive congregation at the School chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Hardaway, Mrs. C. D. Hardaway and Mrs. S. P. Drury, all of Bewleyville, have been visiting Mrs. David Moorman of this place, and Mrs. Frank Peyton, of Falls of Rough, since Friday. They return to-morrow.

At an interesting school exercise Friday afternoon, Robert Moorman showed superior ability in answering miscellaneous questions in U. S. History. Miss Hallie Moorman propounded the most puzzling questions, while Henry Moorman was a close second in selecting the unanswerable ones.

If the manly(?) young men(?) who in their brave(?) deeds of great daring(?) fire weapons at night within a few hundred yards of churches and preaching places, had themselves bent across "the old gentleman's knee" long enough to receive a good spanking, they would be improved considerably. A pistol report seems to us would ring echo and resound in their hollow heads for hours, so that these same laddies would be unable to get sleep enough during the remainder of the night. Try pop-guns boys.

Our news-gathering opportunities being unusually few this week, we request only a short space for our town. In the absence of other matter we would be pleased to note the fact:

That Amos Board, of Hardinsburg, is one of the best hotel men we ever saw.

The new proprietor of the Hambleton House surely made a lucky hit when he selected Amos clerk. This assistance given to such a man as John Alexander doubly assures a very large patronage from the rating public.

That John Dyer more than deserves the poor housekeeper's place. If the Democrats of this county never give him another office, they will overlook one of the best men the party has and show a lack of gratitude to one of its most faithful workers.

That neatly-uniformed, duty-doing Huse Morgan, of Stephensport, was one of the noblest looking fellows we saw in attendance at court last week. He informed us that the members of the Christian church are going to erect a church building at his town. He was quite successful in soliciting aid from the Hardinsburg business men and others whom he approached.

That Robert L. McGuffin has accepted a position with W. H. Newman & Co., of Louisville. "Bob" has moved his family to Hardinsburg and is now a veritable drummer with a full supply of drumming check. Buras will miss both him and his estimable wife.

That we gladly note another Breckenridge boy is not without honor in his adopted home. This time it is J. M. Pile, of Wayne, Neb. Mr. Pile had a varied and successful experience, having been teacher, author, editor, lawyer, lecturer and officeholder in his chosen state. He is now the Democratic nominee for State Senator from his district.

No One Hurt.

The Hawesville Clarion says of the shooting on the Texas train at Powers: "On the Fair train up from Owensboro Saturday evening at Powers' Station a lively scrap was engaged in between whites and blacks, during which a number of shots were fired. The colored citizens are supposed to have been from Rockport, while the whites were led by B. Ballington, of this city. The trouble arose over the invasion of two drunken white toughs in the Jan. Crow car. There was no one killed or wounded, the statement of every other newspaper in the United States and Dominion of Canada to the contrary notwithstanding."

Rural conventions of etiquette are in their way as severe as any known to fashionable society. The man who should ask for the thigh of the chicken when he should have said the "upper joint" would be regarded as indelicate, and has not the euphemism "white meat" for breast spread even to urban communities? The child that receives a gift without saying "Saddy" is always reproved, and the little one that always says "Saddy" without being prompted is a model of deportment.—New York Sun.

Some Criticisms on Charlie Blanford's Speech.

Charlie did not act fair with Uncle Jonas. He should have divided time with him.

Charlie's little scheme is to have an appointment advertised for some Big Card that will draw a crowd and then Charlie takes the trick.

Mr. Blanford championed Ben Harrison but failed to tell us of his little game up at Indianapolis in that street car case lately.

The intelligent masses of the Democratic party are not so badly disappointed as Charlie Blanford seems to think, they did not expect that Congress at one fell swoop like a butcher killing an ox would undo all the robber tariff and boodle bounty laws that the Shermans, the Blaines, the Chandlers and Reeds and McKinleys have been years and years getting up for the benefit of the few against interests of the masses.

Must Have It.

Yes, you must have it. It is the only way you can learn what is going on about you; the news of the city, village or farming district in which you live. You must have your home paper, whether you can afford anything else in the way of current reading or not. And a great deal besides home news, you will find in it. The editor of your home paper aims first of all to give you the home news, with intelligent and helpful comment thereon. But he does not stop there; he does the best he can to give you the general news and the best thought of the whole world. Of course he does not and cannot give you as much as you ought to have, and if you ask him about the matter he will frankly tell you so. He will advise you what you ought to get to supplement your home paper and keep you and your growing boys and girls up with the times in the great fields of politics, sociology, finance, commerce, science, religion, art, education and the literary and book news of the day. He will tell you there is one weekly journal, unique in this respect, made up of carefully selected, condensed and classified extracts from the newspapers and magazines the world over, and that he has made special arrangements by which he can give you a reduced subscription rate for this unique journal, if taken in connection with the BRECKENRIDGE NEWS. He will tell you that the name of this journal so admirably suited to your wants is Public Opinion, that it is published at Washington, D. C., and that the regular subscription price is $2.50 per year, but that he can give you both the News and Public Opinion for one year for $3 cash. He will also tell you that Public Opinion and the News are exactly what you need during this political campaign. Public Opinion will be sent you for ten weeks on trial for fifty cents.

Memoir.

Mrs. Nancy B. Hardin, widow of Moses B. Hardin died, September 20 1894, at her home near Lodi, aged seventy-seven years seven months and fourteen days. She suffered in her last illness for about three months, yet was very patient. She joined the Baptist church at Walnut Grove, about thirty years ago and lived a quiet christian to the end of her life. She was a loving and indulgent mother and a kind and obliging neighbor. Her loss is deeply mourned by her children and many relatives and friends. She was buried by the side of her husband in the family cemetery, on the farm where she spent all of her married life.

"Thy voice makes music in these rooms no more, No more thy footsteps echo in these halls, Only the semblance that thy sweet face wore, Look from thy portrait on the parlor walls."

But when the purple glooms of twilight steal Adown the valleys of the bright, green earth, We love to speak of thee, to think, to feel That thou art with us round the old home hearth, As a mother.
